Ecclesiastical Insurance heads back to BIBA

Ecclesiastical will be back in Manchester for the British Insurance Brokers' Association (BIBA) Conference this May.

The specialist insurer is one of the sponsors of this year's event and will once again be situated at the heart of the Manchester Central venue on stand C40 to meet with brokers.

Ecclesiastical will have leaders from across the business on hand to talk about the company's expertise in real estate, education, charity, leisure, heritage, schemes and art and private client markets and to share what's next for the specialist insurer as it grows into new markets.

As well as finding out more about Ecclesiastical and its owner Benefact Group at BIBA, brokers will again be able to nominate a charity close to their hearts for a chance to win a share of £5,000.

Brokers will be able to nominate their charity at the Ecclesiastical stand, C40, at the conference with five winners being selected on Thursday 16 May and each receiving £1,000. The winners will be announced at the stand but also on the Ecclesiastical social media channels. Search for #charitydraw #BIBA2024.

Richard Coleman, managing director at Ecclesiastical, said: "We're really looking forward to being back at BIBA. It's always a fantastic opportunity to talk to brokers about how we can help them to find the right specialist solution for their customers.

"This year the conference theme is asking "What's Next?" for insurers. From our perspective that's a really exciting question. On top of our ambitions to grow the business in areas we already operate in, we're entering into new markets which brings with it fantastic opportunities for us and our broker partners. Our customer service levels, claims performance, risk and underwriting propositions already set us apart from competitors – but it is our unique purpose, to grow to give to charity, that really differentiate us from the rest.

"By working with Ecclesiastical, brokers are helping us to make a real difference. As part of the Benefact Group, we've donated £200m to charities across the UK and Ireland with ambitions to give even more. As part of that we are giving away £6,000 to charities at BIBA conference as part of our commitment to contributing to the greater good of society, and I'd encourage brokers to visit us at stand C40 to learn more about us and to nominate a cause close to their hearts."

Ecclesiastical Insurance's owner, Benefact Group is the UK's third biggest corporate donor* with ambitions to give £250million to good causes by 2025.
