

Browne Jacobson launches insurance intermediary M&A services in Ireland

Browne Jacobson is well known for advising on insurance intermediary mergers and acquisitions, having advised on over 80 deals in the past three years alone.

As part of our planned expansion, we're delighted to announce that working together with our colleagues in Dublin, we are now able to advise on transactions in the Republic of Ireland, providing a high-level joined-up service for brokers, consolidators and investors looking to expand into the Irish market.

Our services include all aspects of M&A including advising in relation to:

- Regulatory compliance issues.
- Investment Intermediaries Act authorisation.
- Central Bank of Ireland notification.

Combining our insurance market expertise with our strength in depth in corporate transactional the work, we act for some of the most acquisitive consolidators, broker networks and private equity investors with their broker and MGA acquisitions, disposals and restructures.

Tim Johnson, Insurance Sector Lead at Browne Jacobson, is naturally very pleased with the expansion and is optimistic for the future:

"I am delighted to be able to extend our high quality, specialist intermediary M&A offering to clients looking to acquire or dispose of intermediaries in Ireland. Ireland represents a high growth area for many brokers, investors and consolidators, and I look forward to helping clients realise their growth ambitions."

Will Darmody, Head of the M&A practice at Browne Jacobson Ireland added:

"The Irish insurance broker market has seen significant consolidation activity in recent times as large Irish and international intermediaries look to scale and expand their offerings, often backed by private equity. Browne Jacobson has significant expertise in this area and would be delighted to assist any Irish, UK or international clients looking at strategic Irish acquisitions in this sector and/or brokerages looking at potential exits or partnerships."
